Building & Leveraging Community Partnerships in Adult Day in the Age of COVID

Joel Bednoski, Founder and Principal, Harpeth Consultant Advisory Group

Christi Clark, Programming Consultant, Harpeth Consultant Advisory Group

Operators of an Adult Day Service Center know the struggles are real: census, fundraising, marketing, outreach...and then throw in COVID-19 and you have an additional set of struggles! One thing we often overlook is the value of community partnerships. Community partnerships and collaborations can help ease the struggle, now more so than ever. Now, let's be clear we can't solve all your problems, but what we can do is help you learn the steps on how to identify, build, and leverage community partnerships to increase your visibility and get more engaged with your community stakeholders.

Learning Objectives:

- Learn the steps to identify suitable community partnerships in 3 key areas: higher education, for-profit senior living and homecare, and local/national associations;
- Learning how to approach a potential community partner and identify a next step; and,
- Learn how to increase your exposure through your community partnerships.

Reducing High Utilization of Emergency Services Among Older Adults

Ofra Paz, DayBreak Adult Care Centers

The Rapid Response Case Management (RRCM) is a pilot addressing the issue of high utilization of emergency medical systems for non-emergency causes by older adults. DayBreak Adult Care Centers is expanding the pilot in its second year, to work with large healthcare systems and social services, including Emergency Medical Services, hospitals, health care plans and Adult Protective Services.

Learning Objectives:

- The value proposition that community based-services could bring to the table when partnering with healthcare systems.
- Breaking the silos: What are the main challenges in forming and scaling collaborations between community-based organization and healthcare systems?
- Showing your impact: How to create a data driven model of care.

VENDOR SHOWCASE I
11:00 AM – 1:00 PM EDT

WellSky: Using Technology to Support a Changing Landscape of Services

In addition to ever-increasing federal, state and payer requirements, the adult day industry is now faced with the unique challenges of COVID-19. Healthcare has increasingly become data driven. Technology can better enable providers to: collect/report data and diversify services concurrent with meeting the interface between a broad range of service providers, regulatory agencies and payers.

This showcase, hosted by WellSky Adult Day, formerly ADS Data Systems-- is designed to provide solutions to Adult Day Service centers through the use of technology. Center owners and management (Director's, CFOs, Human Resources) will benefit from the information provided.

Key areas to include:

- Documentation for COVID-19 (pre-screening, home delivered meals & telephonic visit)
- Flexibility/Mobility of Software
- Electronic Health Records (Track Hospitalizations & Vaccinations, Create eMAR's)
- Attendance and Billing
- Assessment Tools (ADCAPS, Cognitive, Falls Risk, Elopement Risk, PHQ-9 and Much More)
- Evaluating Business Needs When Considering Software
 - New Centers
 - Existing Centers
 - Multi-site Organizations

Presenter: Kimberly Turner, Software Consultant, WellSky Adult Day.

Kimberly Turner began her healthcare career 18 years ago in the acute care setting. As the healthcare industry compliance and record keeping standards changed, Kimberly took special interest in this new opportunity of electronic health records. She was instrumental in transitioning two specialty physician practices from paper to electronic health records. She has worked with software systems such as Meditech, Allscripts and Epic in both initial implementation as well as transitioning from one electronic system to another. From front line experience, Kimberly understands that such transitions can have an impact on business practices and culture. Her experience and skill set as an end user, with understanding of electronic records systems and HIPAA guidelines, uniquely qualifies Kimberly as a software consultant and trainer.

Takin' it to the Streets: A 25,000 Mile Journey of Inspirations

Jack York, Co-founder of It's Never 2 Late (iN2L)

This presentation will walk attendees through a 25,000-mile journey throughout the world of senior living, including Adult Day sites. What started as a simple journey of gratitude evolved into a life changing series of conversations and interactions with the people and staff living in communities every day. Stories of hope, of determination, of faith, of inspiration, of romance, of possibilities, of exuberance, of loss told every day by the greatest generation and workers who love to serve those same people. The perspectives learned from the visits that crossed over 30 states and over 100 communities provide lessons of delivering care, of improving relationships, and frankly, of transforming how we view aging.

Learning Objectives:

- Has your perspective of aging changed, of what people are capable of, particularly individuals living with dementia?
- Learn lessons and tips that will allow your participants to feel more connected and engaged in your community.
- Be inspired to increase meaningful interactions at your Adult Day sites between management and participants.

Marketing and Event Planning in a Post-COVID World

Joel Bednoski, Founder and Principal, Harpeth Consultant Advisory Group
Christi Clark, Programming Consultant, Harpeth Consultant Advisory Group

If these last few months have taught us anything, it has taught us that for an organization to survive, we have to do things differently and think outside the box. As Centers start to re-open, start accepting increased participant loads and open up services that were previously suspended, marketing your organization in this new landscape is more critical than ever before. Many organizations already struggle with how to develop a comprehensive marketing and event plan that meets their needs. Don't fall into the "if you build it, they will come" mindset. Don't assume social media is the magic cure-all for a lagging census – "post it and they will come." And finally, don't assume that what you were doing before will work again. Marketing is a crucial element in the continued success of your organization and everyone within your organization has a role.

Come join us where we will discuss how to develop a marketing and event plan that will be the foundation on your marketing efforts. In addition, you will learn how to re-introduce yourself in the community through professional and inquiry generating events, and finally learn how to perform a successful sales call with identified next steps. This will be an interactive event and participants attending will leave with tactical how-to next steps.

Learning Objectives:

- Develop a marketing action plan unique to your organization;
- The differentiation between inquiry, professional, and community events;
- How to develop topical subjects relevant to each event type;
- How to leverage community partnerships in the execution of events; and,
- How the marketing plan and event plan work in tandem.
